Dear Colleagues and Friends,

Aniridia Europe, Aniridia Italiana Associations and Fondazione Banca degli Occhi del Veneto Onlus are pleased to announce the upcoming 2nd European Conference on Aniridia, which will be held on September 19th - 20th 2014 in Venice, Italy.

Information about the conference, programme, faculty list and venue is available on www.aniridiaconference.org

Early-bird special registration fees are available until June 15th 2014. Deadline for abstract and case report submission is on May 9th 2014.

During the 2 days, ophthalmologists, geneticists, pediatricians and research scientists from Europe and the USA will address topics such as: management of glaucoma and cataract, genetic bases of aniridia and treatments to be developed for pathologies of the ocular surface and of the posterior segment. Each session includes keynote lectures that will be discussed by a panel of leading experts in congenital aniridia. A special session on clinical management of patients in pediatric age, including a comprehensive programme of care and assistance, will be held on Saturday morning. On Saturday afternoon the conference will be open to patients and to their families, thus allowing the Aniridia community and experts to both learn from each other.

The conference programme is currently in the process of accreditation for Italian ECM credits (CEM Continuing Education in Medicine). English is the official language of the conference.

Venice is a unique city and all efforts will be made to offer the participants a high quality programme, an ideal and friendly atmosphere to exchange opinions and challenges and a welcoming stay.

Please visit www.aniridiaconference.org for further information and updates.

Looking forward to seeing you in Venice,
